Newly built to sit sympathetically with neighbouring homes, the Goldstone Crescent apartment buildings bear decorative brickwork, quoin stones and gabled roofs, set back behind border walls and a neat brick drive. Looking out over the green and leafy environs of Hove Park, their location is prestigious and ideal for anyone looking to live the quintessential Hove lifestyle, close to the countryside, the city centre and the coast.

This generous apartment is easily accessible on the ground floor of the southerly building, benefitting from both a west facing patio terrace and direct access to the east facing communal rear garden. While internally, the finishes are not complete, there will be new oak parquet flooring laid throughout, and streamlined cabinetry in both the kitchen and beautifully tiled bathroom.

Open plan and filled with natural light, the living room and kitchen are the ideal size for entertaining in style or simply relaxing after a long working day or week. Sliding doors open to the patio terrace overlooking the park, offering the ideal spot for enjoying drinks or dinner alfresco as the sun sets over the trees. It is a lovely extension of the home with views that change with the seasons, forming a glorious backdrop to the room.

Within the contemporary kitchen, the appliances are integrated to include a wine chiller, dishwasher, washing machine, fridge freezer, fan oven and an induction hob. Slimline stone worktops also form a peninsula island breakfast bar, all softly lit by recessed LED spots.

Both bedrooms are double, but the principal room enjoys direct access to the communal garden and patio which face east, allowing you to enjoy the weekend papers with breakfast outdoors in the morning sunshine. They share one chic bathroom, with metro-brick marbled wall tiles around a gleaming white bath suite which has a shower over it.
